

The Back Porch News

News, Commentary and Links for the Folk Music Community
<http://www.backporchnews.net>

Tangleweed: Where You Been So Long

Posted by Ken, February 19th, 2007

Tangleweed is a five piece string band with a sound firmly rooted in tradition. Which tradition it is, is a little more uncertain. Drawing from oldtime, bluegrass, western swing and jazz, they create a sound that is authentically American but fiercely refuses to be pinned down to any one genre. They have the fast pickin', high energy sound of a top notch bluegrass band but their repertoire, arrangements and chord selections are much more eclectic.

'Where You Been So Long' includes a western swing tune, an 'instant old-timey protest song' written by the band, a medley of Irish tunes, a jazz standard or two as well as songs penned by members of the band. In spite of the varied sources, the CD moves smoothly from one cut to the next and the end result is a juicy, toe tapping CD, great for bopping around the house or a long drive.

Where You Been So Long? at Amazon.(Affiliate Link)

Tangleweed's web site.

If you enjoyed this article, get free updates by email or RSS.

There are No Comments on "Tangleweed: Where You Been So Long"

The Back Porch News is copyright 2005-2006 by Ken McKinney. Except where otherwise noted, this site is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs2.5 License.